Seventeenth Annual West Virginia State Fair Presents

ATTRACTIONS THAT WILL DRAW

The Largest Crowds Seen in Late Years. Description of the Appearance of the Grounds Yesterday-Business Men are Making Great Efforts in Their Exhibits. Horses and Other Live Stock Coming. Racing Begins Tuesday.

As some one expressed it yesterday, "there'll be a hot time in the old town geous affairs in contrast with previous ones. Beginning at the top of the cupola on the interior, the decorations be-gin with a mammoth star and attached to this are long chains of decorative work strung down until they overlap the fountain, aquarium and a mound the fountain, aquarium and a mound, representing a mountainous country or that of mother earth, all in a harmonious whole fenced in and located just in the center of the main hall. It is a treat too look upon and it will stand inspection and study for some time. There in the aquarium swim hundreds of tiny ornamental gold fishes and chief among them are the "Fan-tail." "Gorgeous," "Superior" and the "Little Darky." To the experienced eye a hundred and one shades of color and as many shapes are detected. As you glance at the hundreds, out pops a transparent one and you can almost see the beating of its heart—then comes a brilliant one. Its back is a bright red, the sides, rosy, while underneath is a snow-white—and then, again, comes the "Little Darky" with its pitch black back, and its color varies from the velvet-black as does the dark-blue in the canopy of heaven, down to the beautiful and delicate that next the peeping of the morning's sun. And as your eye wanders down the miniature mountain it rests for a moment on the water wheel and then it roams around to the old log tabin, lying near the foot of the mountain in bold relief, and strong reality. Then in an instant your eye catches a glimpse of an owl hidden away among the crags until finally a circuit of the little mountain world is made, where you see a corral, an inclosure for wagons, horses and cattle presumably, and your final glance is at the babbling brook which bubbles along below the correl and the old log cachin. Here lies a representing a mountainous country or your final glance is at the babbling brook which bubbles along below the corral and the old log cabin. Here lies a treat for the naturalist, the lover of the beautiful and also for the lover of the mountain home.

Art Department.

Leaving here you are attracted to the art department. Here the ladies will find dollies galore, patch-work and numerous other things which will grasp the attention of ladies for hours and that of men folk but a glance, as they know nothing about such gorgeous ar-know nothing about such gorgeous articles.

Next and in direct communication with the art department, comes the educational. Here will be found the products of the brains of the students of the high schools of the city, and the facts are stated when it is said that some decidedly good work will be seen in the way of state maps and drawings in general. Problems and questions of general interest are handled with considerable skill. In the way of essays, there is a competition between five or six little girls ranging in age from fourteen to sixteen. The subject is the "Old School Desk," which is made to speak, and in nearly every instance the subject is treated in a quaint and original way. The balance of the space is taken up by such business men as the Palace Furniturs Co., W. Schwertfeger, the Business College, Meyer & Radcilffe, ginger ale; and Reymann Beer Company. The decorations in these instances are very tasty and great credit is due the gentlemen.

To-morrow will be children's and merchant's day. The leading merchants have agreed to close their places of business at 12 m. share.

The Fair Fountain.
Assistant Superintendent Ernest Kreiger, of Wheeling Park, has stocked the aquarium in exposition hall at the state fair with some of the most exquisite specimens of gold fish ever seen. The removal of the firmy tribe from the Park fountain was a delicate task, but Mr. Kreiger accomplished his object without the loss of a single scale. The aquarium will be one of the attractions of the fair this week.

Meets and Transacts Business Relating to the Recent Celebration. The general Labor Day committee of the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly met yesterday afternoon, to finish up the business of the Labor Day ish up the business of the Labor Day celebration. Not all of the sub-committees were ready to report, but at the general meeting of the assembly next Sunday everything will be in such shape as to know the exact amount that was cleared on the celebration.

President Sims presided at yesterday's meeting, and Secretary Duffy was at the deak. A surprise had been prepared for the morning paper scribes, but the "hest laid plans of men aft gang agilee," and the scribes, from whom it is almost impossible to keep back the doings of the universe, absented themselves, accidentally, of course. Nevertheless Secretary Duffy was instructed to present on aight a handsome gold pen and case, to R. Duffy was instructed to present on sight a handsome gold pen and case, to R. Mather Archer, of the Intelligencer, for conducting the Labor Day races and other services, and a similar gift to Harry V. Arkle, of the Register, in recognition of his services.

The bar committee reported receipts, $801.99; expenses, $269.90; leaving a balance in assembly's favor of $532.09.

The receipts from music and dancing were $74; expenses $18; balance, $56.

The amusement and printing committees will report at the next meeting of the general committee, which is called for 1 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

TO SELECT DELEGATES.

Wheeling Miners will be Represented at Columbus.

This evening ab Trades Assembly hall meeting of coal miners will be held, to select delegates from the Pan Handle district to the general convention of the district to the general convention of the United Mine Workers Union at Columbus Wednesday. Local miners want to stick out for the 69-cent rate, but the delegates selected will probably go uninstructed. If this is done in the majority of districts the compromise at 64 cents looks good for ratification.

Local miners are also opposed to the conference with the operators January 1. They would rather sign a scale at May 1, when the contracts for the lake trade are let. They know also that men in midwinter can't dictate terms to employers. Consequently, although a 64-cent rate may be accepted, the settlement of a scale January 1 will be fought tooth and cale January 1 will be fought tooth and

A Successful Pienic.

The Sunday schools of the Christian churches of Wheeling, Bellaire, McMechen and Moundsville, united in a union picnic Friday, at Belmont Park. The steamer Eliza having in tow the barge Charm, took the large party to the park, and after a pleasant day spent in the woods landed all safely in the evening at their respective ports, tired but happy. The affair was a complete success in every particular, which was largely due to the efficient management of the several committees in charge of the following chairmen; Mr. Peter Boyd, transportation and grounds; Mr. Will H. Colvig, entertainment and sociability; Mr. Guy Pryor, amusements; Mr. Remick Truxell, collector. The general committee desires to publicly express its thanka to Miss Lyde Heatherington, of Bellaire, for favors received; also to the crew of the steamer Eliza, for its kind and courteous treatment of the excursionists. en and Moundsville, united in a union

Mr. C, N. Taylor Dies.

Last evening at 6 o'clock occurred the death of Charles N. Taylor, the well known oyster and fish dealer, at his home on Thirteenth street. Mr. Taylor has not enjoyed good health for two or three years. He came to Wheeling from Baltimore about ten years ago. His widow survives him.

In Memory of Mrs. Brady. In the Cleveland Plain Dealer appear these beautiful sentiments following death of Mrs. M. E. S. Brady, which oc-curred recently in this city; (In memory of Mrs. M. E. S. Brady)

She drifted from earth's harbor quays— Set sail for the luminous lands By the splendid shores of the sunset sea Where the Christ exctends His hands.

She slipped her moorings without a sound, And rounded the uttermost cape That the searching souls of men have Or that dimmest dreams can shape.

The love its barriers did intervene With the strength of a buttressed fort, She passed between with sails serene, Like a fair ship leaving port.

Secure and sure was her yearning flight Through the ether seas, star-strewn, For bright thro' the night beamed a bea-con-light, Streaming down from the great White Throne.

All breezes fair fanned a voyage rare, And they carried the cargo o'er— The diamond tears and pearls of prayer— Till it touched on the ultimate shore. Full safe the flight, tho' the barque was slight.

As she swept through the bending blue,
For the compass that kept her course aright Was God's own finger true.

She passed the borders of Time's control To the future's fair frontler— To the gracious goal of a stainless soul— With a heart that knew no fear,

Se sailed the ship on her homeward trip, So bravely she crossed the bar, And steered till she entered Heaven's Beneath God's guiding star, DIED.

The Wheeling Builders Exchange will be represented this year at the annual ers Exchange, which occurs in Toronto, Canada, September 14, 15 and 16. The Wheeling organization, like that of Pittsburgh, has never become affiliated with the international body, but every year has seen it invited to the international meeting, nevertheless.

It has been thought by the local builders advisable to be represented this year, and learn what benefits would acrue from affiliation. President W. A. Wilson and likely two other members will go to Torono. The meeting of the international fellows is always a big thing, and expense counts nothing where enjoyment is desired.
